Mother's

Lesson

In the current lifestyle scenario, mothers can broadly be categorized into two.

The first category includes well-educated mothers who are engrossed in their professional careers. Although they possess adequate education, by the time they return home, they often lack the energy to spend quality time with their children or assist in their education.

The second category comprises mothers who are not sufficiently educated and, as a result, struggle to support their children's studies effectively. Upon closer observation, it becomes evident that there are significant gaps in the time mothers spend with their children.

To address these gaps, we have conceptualized class-wise visual digital content that portrays emotional conversations between an ideal mother and her child.

This program is designed to strengthen the emotional bond between mothers and children, fostering love and affection. It also aims to provide clarity on the practical applications of each topic covered. By encouraging consistent viewing of this program by mothers and children together, we anticipate a positive harmonization in their relationships, ultimately contributing to a meaningful societal impact.
